Recommendations

A number of suggested improvements have been made, based on a analysis of your responses to the Modern Slavery Assessment. By implementing these suggested improvements, your organisation can improve its modern slavery statement and should be in a stronger position to mitigate modern slavery risks.

Acknowledging your suggested improvements

You should acknowledge your suggested improvements online via your organisation's account. Acknowledging suggested improvements demonstrates that you are committed to mitigating risks and improving your performance.

To acknowledge your suggested improvements, please access your Assessment using your contracts tab. Click 'Improve' to view and acknowledge your suggested improvements.

Introduction

Section 54 (Transparency in Supply Chains etc.) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 requires applicable commercial organisations to publish a 'modern slavery statement' for each financial year of their organisation, otherwise known as a TISC statement. It applies to all commercial organisations which carry on a business, or part of a business, in the UK, supply goods or services and have an annual turnover of £36m or more.

The Government encourages organisations, including those that do not fall in scope of the Act, to complete this assessment so that organisations have a framework to aid them in their journey to understanding and addressing modern slavery risks. If you have been invited to complete the assessment by the Government or any other public body, this tool should help them work in partnership with your organisation to improve how your organisation ensures workers aren't being exploited in your supply chains.

What is modern slavery?

Modern slavery is an umbrella term used to encapsulate offences in the Modern Slavery Act 2015: involving slavery, servitude and forced or compulsory labour; and human trafficking.

Why is it important?

Modern slavery is a serious and organised crime that destroys communities and causes significant harm to victims. It is the illegal exploitation of people for personal or commercial gain, and involve people being coerced and forced into providing service to others. Some estimates suggest that there were over 40 million people living in slavery across the world in 2016, many of whom will be working to produce the goods and services which we buy and sell every day. The Home Office estimated that there were 10,000-13,000 potential victims in the UK alone in 2013. It is a crime that affects men, women and children.

The Home Office estimates the total social and economic cost of modern slavery to the UK was £3.4-4.3 billion in 2016-17, making the average cost of modern slavery crime (£334,750) higher than the unit cost of any other crime type apart from homicide. Worldwide, the International Labour Organisation (ILO) estimates over $150 billion of illegal profits are generated by traffickers per year. Unscrupulous businesses who use slave labour undercut good British businesses and if we are to eradicate this horrendous crime from the UK and the rest of the world, government and businesses must work together.

About this Assessment

This assessment provides information about activity undertaken by NAKODAR LIFESCIENCES UK LTD to tackle modern slavery. It may be used to support the production of an annual modern slavery statement as set out in the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Your responses can be updated at any time to maintain a current and accurate report. The Assessment has six sections, each of which captures information that may be included in a statement, as set out by guidance within the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

The answers you have provided will be kept confidential and will only be shared with buyers that you have given permission to access.

According to the information submitted in support of this assessment:

NAKODAR LIFESCIENCES UK LTD has stated that its turnover is 50000 GBP.

NAKODAR LIFESCIENCES UK LTD has indicated that it is completing this assessment on behalf of its own organisation,

NAKODAR LIFESCIENCES UK LTD has provided the following additional information regarding their commitment to tackling modern slavery: Nakodar Lifesciences UK Ltd takes a proactive and long-term approach to tackling modern slavery. Beyond compliance, we are building a culture of ethical responsibility through supplier engagement, staff education, and transparent practices. We are currently working towards implementing third-party social audits and plan to publish a formal Modern Slavery Statement. Our leadership team is committed to ensuring that all operations and supply chains meet high ethical standards, and we welcome collaboration with NHS partners to promote responsible sourcing and continuous improvement.

The Government encourages organisations not in scope to still consider publishing a statement as modern slavery risks can manifest in almost any organisation.

1. Information About the Business and its Supply Chain

About this section:

This section provides some basic information about your organisation and its business operations which will help to provide context for a modern slavery statement. Ensuring relevant and up-to-date information in statements will help your organisation communicate its efforts in the most effective manner.

For the purpose of drafting a Modern Slavery Statement, information to disclose could include:

- the sector(s) the business operates in and whether any of its work is undertaken by agency labour
- the organisational structure and group relationships
- the countries it sources its goods or services from, including high risk countries where modern forms of slavery are prevalent.
- the make-up and complexity of the supply chains
- the businesses operating model
- relationships with suppliers and others, including trade unions and other bodies representing workers

Having a good understanding of your supply chain helps to define the boundaries of the report and to support the identification of risk regarding modern slavery.

2. Policies Relating to Modern Slavery

About this section:

The establishment of effective policies and incentives shape the environment and sets the tone of an organisation in assessing, preventing and mitigating the risk of modern slavery. Clear organisational policies demonstrate an organisation's commitment to this issue and ensures that appropriate and coordinated action is taken throughout the business.

Tackling modern slavery does not necessarily require a stand-alone policy. It could simply be adapting, and/or clarifying how existing policies and practices, programmes and management systems already work to prevent modern slavery.

If policies and practices are to have the desired effect they must be supported through effective communications and, where appropriate, training, resourcing and collaboration of effort by appropriately skilled personnel. Policies should be established and clearly communicated so that anti-slavery activity within a company and its supply chains becomes embedded as standard practice, which staff are aware of and incentivised to partner on and support.

Policies work best when supported by senior management and are updated and reviewed regularly.

3. Assessing and Managing Risk

About this section:

Modern slavery risk assessments should be seen as part of an organisation's wider approach to risk management and could form part of more general risk assessments that are carried out for a variety of reasons.

Appropriate resources are needed to ensure that risk assessment strategies can be effective. This means that the assessments should be able to identify the risks and issues, properly assess their level of importance, and ensure that appropriate remedies are in place.

Identifying relevant information from internal and external sources will help businesses to undertake effective risk assessments and appropriate review of those risks. Particular business risks to consider in assessing and managing risks to workers include:

- Country risks:
 - Exposure may be greater in global supply chains in countries where protection against breaches of human rights are limited, particularly with regard to rights of foreign contract workers to retain their own ID and papers, and/or where work arrangement by agents is common, etc.
- Sector risks:
 - There are different risks and levels of risk in different sectors. For example, the risks and arrangements which generate bonded labour situations for workers in the extractives sector may differ to those causes in manufacturing.
- Transaction risks:
 - Banks or financial institutions may be involved in facilitating financing from or supporting cases of modern slavery and bonded labour in operations or supply chains or through money laundering.
- Business Partnership risks:
 - Different supplier relationships and business partnerships will all carry different levels of risks. In some cases, existing long-term partnerships will involve less risk because the organisation will have a better knowledge of their partner's operations and policies. However, a new partnership or business relationship may be equally low risk as long as proper due diligence is conducted.

14. Have you assessed how your organisation's purchasing practices may create pressures on your suppliers that could lead to modern slavery?

- Yes
- No

14a. What aspects have you assessed? Tick all that apply.

- Aggressive pricing that does not consider sustainable production cost.
- Short lead times
- Late high-volume orders
- Inaccurate forecasting
- Late or extended payments
- Withdrawn from contracts last minute
- Unfair penalties for not meeting orders despite last minute changes
- Inaccurate technical specifications
- Other

15. At which of the following stages during the procurement process does your organisation consider modern slavery risks? Tick all that apply.

- Needs identification
- Requirement definition
- Tender evaluation (including scoring and adjudication process)
- Contract award
- In-life contract management
- End of contract review
- None of the above

16. Do you supply goods (to the buyer/s that invited you to complete this assessment) that have been identified by the US Department of Labor to be at higher risk of being produced by child labour or forced labour?

- Yes
- No
- Do not know
- Not applicable

17. Where have you identified there to be the highest risk of modern slavery in your organisation and your supply chains?

- Categories
- Vulnerable groups
- Types of work
- Sectors
- Other
- Have not identified

18. Within the last 12 months, have you identified any of your organisation's suppliers as being at high risk of modern slavery as a result of your organisation's risk assessment?

- Yes
- No - we have investigated our supplier risk and found none to be at hig.
- No - we have not investigated our suppliers' modern slavery risks

4. Due Diligence Processes

About this section:

Human rights due diligence is a key concept in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UNGPs). The UNGPs specify that due diligence processes should include assessing actual and potential human rights impacts, integrating and acting upon the findings, tracking responses, and communicating how impacts are addressed.

Due diligence procedures should be:

- proportionate to the identified modern slavery risk,
- the severity of the risk, and
- level of influence a business may have.
- informed by any broader risk assessments that have been conducted (see Assessing and Managing Risk section above).

For the purpose of the Modern Slavery Statement, due diligence information could include:

- Actions taken to understand the businesses operating context
- Impact assessments undertaken
- Action plans to address and risk/actual instances of modern slavery and how actions have been prioritised
- Evidence of stakeholder engagement
- Business-level grievance mechanisms in place to address modern slavery
- Actions taken to embed respect for human rights and zero tolerance of modern slavery throughout the organisation

Yes

- No

26. Is there any further information you want to provide on the due diligence your organisation undertakes to manage modern slavery risks?

- Please provide details

Yes. Nakodar Lifesciences UK Ltd undertakes ongoing due diligence to manage modern slavery risks, including supplier pre-qualification checks, contract clauses requiring Modern Slavery Act compliance, and review of labour policies from overseas manufacturers. We prioritise high-risk regions for assessment and are enhancing our supplier audit framework. Staff involved in procurement are trained to identify red flags, and we are currently completing the Modern Slavery Assessment Tool (MSAT) to align with NHS and government best practices.

5. Training Provision

About this section:

Training is a fundamental way of raising awareness and ensuring that people understand the importance of a particular issue. It also helps people to understand what they need to do, and how to work together internally or externally if they encounter something that raises concerns.

Training may be targeted at different groups of employees within a business, including leadership, or at different businesses within a supply chain, and the training itself could take a range of different forms. It may range from detailed training courses to broader awareness-raising programmes.

Organisations should think about where training should be targeted to have the most effect. If those employees who might encounter victims directly are more aware of the indicators of modern slavery and of how to report suspected cases, and what actions they can expect the company to take, then they can raise flags, and help to root it out in a particular business or supply chain.

- Please provide further details on the type of training.
Yes. Nakodar Lifesciences UK Ltd provides awareness training and written guidance to key suppliers on modern slavery risks, ethical labour practices, and UK compliance expectations. This includes onboarding materials, compliance checklists, and regular communication to reinforce supplier responsibilities under the Modern Slavery Act. We are also developing formal training modules to support continuous improvement across our supply chain.

6. Key Performance Indicators

About this section:

This section examines your organisation's Key Performance Indicators, the areas they cover and their governance.

Key Performance Indicators (KPI): quantifiable value or metric to measure the activity and progress towards the achievement of intended results or objectives.

Performance indicators are important in driving the performance of a business and shaping the way it operates. They can also affect how exposed the business is to the risk of modern slavery.

KPIs could be used in a modern slavery statement in two ways. Firstly, businesses could choose to provide information on their existing KPIs and set out whether they have considered whether they make their business and supply chain vulnerable to modern slavery.

Secondly, this section of the statement could outline any additional KPIs which the company has introduced to measure the performance of any anti-slavery actions undertaken. If an initial risk assessment highlighted issues in a company's operations or supply chain, a KPI could be introduced to measure progress against reducing that risk, i.e. improving conditions for those people.

A business could set targets for:

- Training and capacity building of staff about modern slavery issues
- Measuring changes in awareness of risk
- Appropriate decision making and swift action as appropriate
- Grievance procedures and whistle-blowing procedures for workers if cases or suspected cases are found
- Visibility, leverage and oversight of suppliers in relevant goods and services supply chains

It is also good practice for KPIs to be reviewed regularly by senior management to ensure the KPIs are practical and achievable.

For further guidance on developing KPIs, see the Government's practical guidance.

29. Please provide a summary of your organisation's objectives and plans to improve how you manage modern slavery risks in the next 12 months.

- Please provide details

Nakodar Lifesciences UK Ltd is committed to strengthening our approach to managing modern slavery risks. Over the next 12 months, our objectives and action plan include: Complete the Modern Slavery Assessment Tool (MSAT): Finalise and submit our MSAT to align with NHS and Home Office standards, using the results to guide improvements. Enhance Supplier Due Diligence: Introduce a structured supplier risk assessment framework, prioritising high-risk regions and product categories. All new suppliers will undergo stricter onboarding checks, including evidence of ethical labour practices. Conduct Supplier Audits: Begin periodic audits and assessments of selected suppliers, particularly overseas manufacturers, with a focus on working conditions, subcontracting, and recruitment practices. Training and Awareness: Expand modern slavery awareness training to include all procurement and senior operational staff. We will also develop and distribute guidance materials to key suppliers. Policy Review and Update: Review and strengthen our Modern Slavery and Ethical Sourcing Policy to ensure it reflects current legislation, NHS requirements, and best practice. Implement Reporting Mechanism: Establish a confidential reporting channel for modern slavery concerns internally and within our supply chain. By taking these actions, Nakodar Lifesciences aims to reduce the risk of modern slavery, increase supply chain transparency, and support ethical procurement across all NHS and public sector contracts.
